I. Introduction

Teaching reciting poetry is difficult task. The problem in teaching reciting poetry is the students can not recite a poem in approtiate way. This problem can decline the students’ interest in reciting a poetry. It is not easy in reciting a poem for the students. They require to understand well the truth definition of poetry and their element. The elements of poetry are related each other, they can not be separated. If one element of poetry is missed the students can not recite it well.

In broadest sense, poetry can be interpreted as writing that aims to present ideas and evoke an emotional experience in the reader through the use of meter, imagery, connotative and concrete words, and a carefully constructed structure based on rhythmic patterns (Hacht, 2009). Poetry relies on words and expressions that have several categories of meaning. It also makes use of the effects of regular rhythm on the ear and may make a strong appeal to the senses through the use of imagery. From the statement above it has been known that poetry have four elements they are sound, sense, structural, and meaning.

The first element is sound. It is related with the rhythm. It is the musical beat of a word or phrase and organized by the division of each line into “feet,” metric units which each consist of a particular arrangement of strong and weak stresses. The most common metric unit is the iambic, in which an unstressed syllable is followed by a stressed one.

The second element is sense. Poetry often deals with deep human emotions, people generally don’t respond very strongly to abstract words, even the words describing such emotions and thoughts. The poet must insert within his work those words which do carry strong visual and sensory impact, words which are fresh and spontaneous but vividly descriptive. The poem can influence the readers’ emotional. The reader emotion can be loving, condescending, bitter, pitying, fanciful, solemn, they can reveals attitudes and feelings, in the style of language or expression of thought used to develop the subject of the poem.

The third element is structural. It talks about the arrangement and the place on the ways poems are created to follow and assist the reader in understanding. Rhyme, rhyme scheme, stanza, and point of view are the tool pattern to help the reader in describing their mood or atmosphere.

The last element is meaning. Poetry conveys several meanings or shades of meaning at the same time. It is the poet’s job to find words which, when used in relation to other words in the poem, will carry the precise intention of thought. Often, some of the more significant words may carry several layers or “depths” of meaning at once.

Salameh (2015) states that the problems relating to those all elements of poetry language, rhythm, meter, form, symbolicism, enjoyment, appreciation, and culture appeared in a relatively large number of the students: thus, the inability to understand the meaning leads to a complication in grasping the theme or the subject of the poem, and the inability to pronounce the words correctly leads to inability to determine the rhyme rhythm and meter Furthermore, the students have limited knowledge of meaning which contained in the poem significantly make them complicated the understanding of the text. It has been indicated that the students had recognized the problem and was not able to recite a poem emotively, accurately, and expressively.

Not all teachers can teach reciting poetry in the classroom well. The teacher should reflect and got involve in learning process. The students read the poem with the same intonation as previous students, monotonous intonation, and then answering the question of reading, telling the contents of poetry, and reading poetry in flat expression (Kusuma, 2009). Nica (2010) also have noticed a major decline in students’ interest in reciting a poem, students always find difficulty in determining rhythms, meaning, and expression.

Teaching poetry requires an interesting video that can increase the passion for student learning. According Hijazi & Natour (2012) music can enhance the ability of students to appreciate poetry and enhance the activity of students in participating in learning activities, thus increasing the expected learning outcomes. In addition Stein (2011) argues teaching reciting poetry must be funny, attractive, and easy to understand. Musical performance can be helpful in focusing emotive and productive process in reciting a poem. The elements of music can be used to create a pleasant and comfortable atmosphere and provide suggestions that stimulate the development of the student's imagination.

Music video media can be used as a model to create an atmosphere of suggestion, stimulus, and also serve as a bridge for students to imagine or create a picture and events based descriptive meaning in the poem. The quality of learning poetry could be improved by using modeling method through youtube video. It can increase students’ motivation and interest. Through this model students are expected that they are able to identify and recite poem well and appropriate with (Rusmawan, 2015)
